- * Instructor : Dr. Rima EidAsiMoqattash
- * Office hours: Sun, Tue, and Thurs (12-2) Mon and Wed (11-2:30)
- * E-mail: rima.asi@iu.edu.jo
- * Course Description:

This course will answer the following questions:

What is it we do when we try to understand words, habits, gestures, and beliefs not our own? Do we understand something foreign to us by immersing ourselves in it or by standing apart? Does ability to understand something foreign imply taking universal standpoint? Can we make judgments about beliefs other than our own? Questions of cultural interpretation have long history in both Western and non-Western cultures, Arabic language and culture in specific. Discussion of Orientalism and history of questions about cross-cultural interpretation and comparative interpretation of cultures in comparative literature will be raised in this course.

* Objectives:

The objectives of this course are:

- 1- To compare different literary and cultural traditions.
- 2- To develop the conceptual tools required to analyze them.
- 3- To highlight the points of similarity and points of difference between different chosen texts taken from English and Arabic Literature.
- 4- To understand what is meant by Orientalism.

* General Outcome:

At the end of the course the student is supposed to :

- 1- Know the definition, the elements and techniques of the different types of comparative literature schools.
