

102427 Sociolinguistics (3 CHs)(P 102222)

This course presents the main ideas related to the mutual influence of language and the community structure. It also deals with variation in language usage as required by situations in the everyday life of the individual, group, and nation.