

108482 Semantics (3 CHs) (P 108222)

This is an advanced course on linguistics, which is concerned with the study of 'meaning' in so far as it is encoded systematically within the vocabulary and grammar of language. It covers a wide variety of linguist aspects, and presupposes prior knowledge of some basic concepts. The objectives of the course is to make students aware of what meaning is, how it is structured or expressed within an academic or scientific framework, and how language functions at the level of meaning.